

(Free pdf) Communication and Aging: Creative Approaches to Improving the Quality of Life

Communication and Aging: Creative Approaches to Improving the Quality of Life

Linda S. Carozza

audiobook / *ebooks / Download PDF / ePub / DOC

DOWNLOAD

READ ONLINE

#938155 in Books 2015-08-17Ingredients: Example IngredientsOriginal language:English 8.75 x 5.75 x .75L, 1.00 #File Name: 1597566128336 pages | File size: 41.Mb

Linda S. Carozza : Communication and Aging: Creative Approaches to Improving the Quality of Life before purchasing it in order to gage whether or not it would be worth my time, and all praised Communication and Aging: Creative Approaches to Improving the Quality of Life:

1 of 1 people found the following review helpful. As a lifelong teacher, I consider this to be ...By marion W.As a lifelong teacher, I consider this to be a "must-read" for all who wish to improve the quality of life for aging family members and relatives as well as caregivers and clinicians. Dr. Carozza addresses the deterioration of communication skills in the elderly and disabled, emphasizing the need for social model programs, which include music art, and poetry therapy to enrich the lives of individuals who have been compromised by the inability to communicate. 0 of 0 people found the following review helpful. Five StarsBy CustomerExactly what we needed!

Communication and Aging: Creative Approaches to Improving the Quality of Life provides an overview of alternative approaches used to improve the quality of life of individuals with long-term chronic communication diseases. Through discussion of various methods, this text examines how professionals can inspire and plan programs that allow patients to live successfully with their disorders. This book begins with chapters focused on communication issues (speech, hearing, voice, language, etc.) associated with aging and neurogenic diseases, then transitions into an overview of creative approaches for improving the quality of life in individuals affected by such communication issues. Key features of this text include: Detailed description of successful therapeutic modalities (such as drama, art, and music) on the ability of patients and families to participate and benefit. Real-life examples of programs that combine non-directive strategies with outcome measure assessment. Discussion of social models and contrast theories of medical models of patient rehabilitation. The effect of social integration on patient quality of life and wellness. Communication and Aging is a source for innovative therapeutic planning, and is ideal for professionals seeking to stretch the boundaries of support to patients who may have maximized private pay and directive therapy options.

About the AuthorLinda S. Carozza, PhD, CCC-SLP, is an associate professor of communication sciences and disorders. She is recognized as an academic and clinical leader in the area of adult neurogenic communication disorders. Her research and practice in aphasia and dementia have been presented at national meetings and in international journals. Dr. Carozza has a special interest in the support of patients and families via social model programs as well as outcome effectiveness in quality of life enhancement. She has developed a deep appreciation of the role of both traditional and integrative medicine in the long-term management of neurogenic communication disorders, with community reintegration as the ultimate goal of rehabilitation. During her career, Dr. Carozza has been associated with leading medical and educational institutions in the field of speech-language pathology and audiology, including the world-renowned New York University Langone Medical Center, St. John s University, and many others. Dr. Carozza is in private practice and serves as a mentor to many professionals. Dr. Carozza is also the author of Science of Successful Supervision and Mentorship released by Plural Publishing in 2010.