Deborah Theodoros, PhD, Lorraine Ramig, CCC-SLP : Communication and Swallowing in Parkinson Disease before purchasing it in order to gauge whether or not it would be worth my time, and all praised Communication and Swallowing in Parkinson Disease:

The current body of literature in the field of speech pathology pertaining to the description, assessment, and management of the communication and swallowing difficulties experienced by people with Parkinson's Disease is extensive. However, the majority of this literature is published in research journal article format, or as individual book chapters in various books. The first of its kind, Communication and Swallowing Disorders in Parkinson's Disease condenses and organizes this information into an accessible format in order to provide a comprehensive understanding of these disorders and their management in this clinical population.

About the Author Dr. Theodoros is Professor and Head of the Division of Speech Pathology, School of Health and Rehabilitation Sciences at the University of Queensland, Brisbane, Australia. Dr. Ramig is a Professor in the Department of Speech-Language and Hearing Science (SLHS) at the University of Colorado-Boulder; a Senior Scientist at the National Center for Voice and Speech (NCVS), a division of the Denver Center for the Performing Arts; an Adjunct Professor at Columbia Teacher's College in New York City; and Founder/President of the LSVT Foundation, a non-profit organization.
