Cheryl D. Gunter, Mareile A. Koenig : Communication Development and Disorders for Partners in Service before purchasing it in order to gauge whether or not it would be worth my time, and all praised Communication Development and Disorders for Partners in Service:

This book serves as an introduction to topics related to typical and atypical language development that is considered most important to those with the potential to participate in the clinical service provision continuum. The broad topics would include (a) definition and description of language, (b) theories of language development, (c) precursors for language development, (d) language skills, which include prelinguistic, earlier and later linguistic, and metalinguistic, (e) collaborative professional relationships, (f) language delays, disorders, and differences, (g) aspects of the process of evaluation, and (h) aspects of the process of intervention.
