

Community Organizing and Community Building for Health

From Brand: Rutgers University Press

*Download PDF | ePub | DOC | audiobook | ebooks

Download

Read Online

#1340872 in Books Rutgers University Press 2004-09-28 Original language: English PDF # 1 9.25 x 6.25 x 1.251, 1.53 #File Name: 0813534747504 pages | File size: 23.Mb

From Brand: Rutgers University Press : Community Organizing and Community Building for Health before purchasing it in order to gauge whether or not it would be worth my time, and all praised Community Organizing and Community Building for Health:

0 of 0 people found the following review helpful. Community Assessment By MARCIA D. SMITH The authors of this book focused their attentions on the value, strength, and creative found in communities. For everyone working in and with communities to improve the public's health-professional and community members alike, this uniquely comprehensive book is the ultimate guide. 1 of 1 people found the following review helpful. Great for learning detailed aspects about community development and planning in public healthBy SuzanneVery detailed, variety of interesting points, examples and research. I would recommend prevention is primary first, before reading this book because it is a bit more advanced. It reads more like a leisure book than a text book which is nice.0 of 0 people found the following review helpful. grad schoolBy J. JohnsonThis book was assigned for my graduate class. It is a little wordy and not very interesting but all in all a good book to have for class. I am learning from it and I just have to force myself to read through it. It is an easy read and the book came in perfect condition.

This monumental work captures and redraws the lines for 'thinking outside of the box' to advance community health and empowerment -- Ronald L. Braithwaite, Ph.D., Rollins School of Public Health of Emory UniversityAbout the AuthorMeredith Minkler is a professor of health and social behavior at the School of Public Health, University of California at Berkeley. She has over twenty-five years of experience in community building and organizing with diverse populations and is coauthor or editor of six books, including Community-based Participatory Research for Health.