SwiftWhen I was asked to supervise/mentor a new Speech Pathologist I turned to this book for direction. Dr. Brasseur was a professor of mine so I already knew how thorough she is in all that she undertakes. The book exceeded my expectations for detail. It is guiding me through the process of supervising/mentoring. It has brought my attention to important steps I need to incorporate that I would not have otherwise recognized as significant. It is of great benefit in providing me with the opportunity to explore my own professional skills, communication style, and my knowledge base for making clinical decisions. So, all in all, it is invaluable as a day-to-day organizational tool, fulfilling one's commitment to the RPE/CFY individual, fulfilling one's responsibility to the profession, and also in providing me, as a working SLP, the opportunity to critically review my own skills and determine a personal guide for self-improvement. 0 of 0 people found the following review helpful. Firmly rooted in research, The Supervisory Process in Speech-Language Pathology and Audiology is an update of Jean L. Anderson's seminal work by the same name and proves to be a practical guide for supervision at all stages of development. This book is a practical and immediately applicable resource for supervisors and supervisees. The contemporary format of this new book includes a new chapter on the supervision of speech-language pathology assistants, attention to new ASHA training standards (effective in 2005), and case studies and practical tools that make it useful for supervisors in any setting and level of practice. Professional is the field of speech-language pathology and audiology as well as professionals in allied health and education
