2 of 2 people found the following review helpful. Fascinating account of decision-making over flu vaccineBy Big Hairy JoeThis report was commissioned by the Federal government and undertaken by two Harvard professors. It was undertaken so that decision-makers faced with similar situations in the future could learn from the swine flu fiasco of the mid-1970s. Even though this report was written more than 30 years ago, much of what was learned from that previous episode has relevance today. This report really should be mandatory reading for anyone interested in protecting public health from hazards of uncertain impact.
